

MILITANT LABOR FORUM:

THE CUBAN REVOLUTION SHOWS THE WAY: LESSONS FOR WORKING PEOPLE IN THE U.S.

“There will be a victorious revolution in the United States before a victorious counterrevolution in Cuba,” said Fidel Castro in 1961.

For decades the Cuban people have not only stood up against U.S. imperialism, but extended a fighting hand of solidarity to all other toilers and fighters from around the world, including inside the United States.

Come to a discussion that will take up:

- How workers and farmers in Cuba established political power and used it to fight exploitation, racism, and women’s inequality.

- How the fights for legalization of immigrant workers, to organizing unions through the country, defending a women’s right to choose abortion, fights against cop brutality, and other working class struggles are integral to the fight for socialism.

Top: Contingent of UNITE HERE union at May 1 march of 400,000 in Chicago for immediate legalization. Right: Cuban educational volunteers in Venezuela, 2003. Left: Celebration in Santiago de Cuba, of the 50th anniversary of the launching of the Cuban revolution, 2003. Bottom: Fidel Castro was welcomed in 1960 to Harlem in New York City by Malcolm X.

Speaker: Tom Leonard, veteran leader of the Socialist Workers Party
