“OUTLAWED” is a documentary produced by Witness and Amnesty International USA in association with 12 other groups worldwide. It places the post-9/11 phenomenon of renditions, torture, and the “war on terror” in a human rights context and calls for action to end these human rights abuses.

Hear the stories of Khaled El-Masri and Binyam Mohamed, two men who survived extraordinary rendition, secret detention and torture by the U.S. government working with various other governments worldwide. Also, commentaries from Louise Arbour, the U.N. High Commissioner for Human Rights, U.S. President George W. Bush, Michael Scheuer, the chief architect of the rendition program and former head of the Osama Bin Laden unit at the CIA, and U.S. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice.
